Lucerne, Switzerland, March 18th, 2016

Ladies and gentlemen,
Valued friends of our world organisation!

Today it is my privilege to invite you as a valued member, once more to renew your membership with The World Foundation for Natural Science for another year, and to dedicate your precious attention to our common task wherever you can do this and feel it to be your strength.

Filled with gratitude, today, twelve months after my accession to the office of European President of The World Foundation for Natural Science, I look back upon an extraordinarily busy and successful year. As a global organisation with thousands of active members like you on five continents, we have achieved more than ever in the months past. My heartfelt gratitude therefore belongs to you, dearest member, and to how you supported us—and here I am talking about support of a financial nature as well as about the active distribution of important background information and sharing our common mission.

It amazes me time and again afresh how much people who are committed to a common goal can affect and achieve. As Plato said: "The price good men pay for indifference [...to public affairs], is to be ruled by evil men.", or as the Irish statesman Edmund Burke [1729–1797] expressed it later: "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." [attr.] It cannot be described in a better way how important it is that people like you and us as an organisation together set about that which is evident or also only exists latently and must be improved in our living environment, especially concerning our own lives. Edmund Burke also said: "Nobody makes a greater mistake than he who does nothing because he can do only a little." Although everyone must recognize sooner or later that there is much more power in cooperation and teamwork—and this way we achieve more and more quickly that which we know inevitably has to be tackled and must be brought back into balance, whatever this may be. As a society we cannot leave to fate or a future generation the grievances which we ourselves, but also former generations, have caused. Such an attitude would prove fatal sooner or later. This is most of all the case when solutions for real problems already exist. In addition there is the fact that when we are aware that something in our lives and sphere of influence is not all right anymore, as an Earth dweller it is our God-given obligation to make the according corrections. [James 3:1] And nobody should have to accuse himself of having done nothing when he could have, just because he himself thought he had only a little to offer. In other words, you cannot stick your head in the sand and later complain about the sand between your teeth—for knowledge not put into practice is more dangerous than ignorance, and for this reason I ask you here to share my passion for our tasks.

Together we can bring about changes more quickly and at the same time we thus can come closer to the vision of a better future. You certainly agree with me that it is no use to complain about something that doesn't suit you, but that the best remedy against this is action. This is valid for us as individual citizens, wherever we live, as well as collectively. A successful realisation requires that we implement goals and visions through concrete actions in the moment when they are requested and that they are not postponed, pushed aside or even neglected. For example, with each passing season it becomes ever more evident how urgently our Earth as a Planet, but also the environment in which we live and move as well as living together as a society at large, are in need of such a concrete collaboration, now. Today, everyone who is reasonably interested in a healthy life for himself as well as for future generations should be aware that waiting for better times or the intervention of a Higher Force, which will restore everything to harmony again, is not possible, but it is solely up to us to restore with common sense a natural harmony. We can neither rely on future generations to bring back into balance the disharmony mostly created by us—a throwaway society and a society of electronic technology and predominantly godless development and research. Now and today is the moment in which we have to approach that which is not good anymore.

You, precious friend of our world organisation, have already helped us to plant seeds in the consciousness of our fellow men in order to spread the solutions together with us, for example for the restoration of our soils—the foundation of a healthy life worth living—and to make a positive difference. Here we would like to express to you our most heartfelt gratitude for your efforts to this cause, because without your endeavours, in whatever form, we could never have achieved so much in the past year. And our work, so it seems to me, has just begun. In order to share this message with millions of our fellow men and to make the knowledge needed to bring about lasting positive changes more accessible, we have, in addition to our dozens of lectures and seminars all around the world in the past year, also completely redesigned and upgraded our website. There is now at the disposal of every visitor a multitude of information, articles, 'Fact Sheets' and brochures and things worth knowing in general (in four, and soon in six languages) to read and also to download, if so desired. Much of the information is available nowhere else, and we are continuously working together with experts from all over the world to produce for you new publications about today's important core issues. Moreover, we can always keep you updated through our e-mail newsletter.

Yet, the most important thing is that we put into practice all this knowledge gained in order to effect a positive change for the recovery of our Planet and to focus the awareness of the world's population upon it. Last year we established many valuable contacts worldwide in order to realise this great task together—the restoration and healing of the world through responsibility and commitment in accord with Natural and Divine law. It gave me courage to see that so many good people are willing to set out on this path with Nature, because nobody can do it alone—it takes every single one, including you. Therefore I ask you to join with us, no matter whether you are a scientist, an expert, or simply a person who carries his or her heart in the right place.

The top-class speakers at our successful Congress last autumn with the theme "Let Nature be your teacher!" showed impressively that Nature carries the solutions within herself and that all life is connected. This realisation and its anchoring in the global consciousness is the key and the way to bring about the restoration of this world; and it is this mission to which we have committed ourselves. It can be done, we of The World Foundation for Natural Science believe this. We study what makes this world, what keeps this world, and what this world needs to continue in the true Spirit with which it was originally founded. True science and God are not opposites, but rather God is the Natural Force behind the sciences—ALL life is connected, and there is a ripple effect in everything we do as human beings — "What I do affects you, and what you do affects me."

We will come forward as never before in this year 2016, and our care and love for this Earth and its inhabitants compels us to do more than ever. But as no one can reach such goals all by himself, it takes like-minded honest people like you, who are willing to commit themselves for the Earth, with an open mind and an open heart, together with us. We thank you from the bottom of our hearts for your valuable support in years past and thanks to your loyalty and your constancy we can look back on 23 successful years, and we are looking forward to a fruitful partnership in 2016! The more people join together and are ready to leave to our children and our children's children a habitable Planet, the more great things we will bring about together. Therefore we once more cordially invite you to fill in the attached "Declaration for Life" for this year 2016 and to renew your membership with The World Foundation for Natural Science.

This year, too, with a "sponsor" membership you have free admittance to all lectures of our organisation—and as a "patron" to each of our events, including this year's Scientific Congress, which will take place from Thursday, November 3rd, to Sunday, November 6th, 2016, once again in Ulm, Germany. Especially with a sponsor or patronage membership you help us to be able to finance events and activities. We are a non-profit organisation and your membership fee and your additional donations, which we thankfully accept and which we depend on to cover all arising costs, are used for the fulfilment of our mandate exclusively—and always sensibly!

You may also fill in your membership declaration directly on our website www.naturalscience.org and therefore maybe even pass on to a friend the cards included with this letter. It is our hope that you often visit us on our website and then, by word-of-mouth advertising, distribute the information among your friends and acquaintances, too. We assure you that we do not take your membership in our organisation, and hence a prolific partnership, for granted. We invite you to not only keep up the relationship with us but to even expand it through a preferably long-lasting and active collaboration.

If you should have any questions we are happy to be there for you by phone or by means of e-mail. We wish you from the bottom of our hearts good health, all the best, and God's blessings on all your ways. It is now my hope to be able to welcome you at one of our events. Until then I remain always and everywhere in service for Nature and for you as a fellow dweller in our habitat, yours...
