Ladies and Gentlemen, dear friends!

Lucerne, October 7th, 2015

“We are exceedingly delighted to invite you today to our 20th Scientific World Congress. More than a generation has gone by since the establishment of this worldwide organisation of The World Foundation for Natural Science in 1993. However, we understand ourselves more as a dynamic organism or Activity rather than an organisation, as everything in life as a whole is constantly moving and growing, and it is in this sense that we carry out our tasks. Only if we as a society seek a common solution for the present issues which now have unfortunately become all-too-obvious and even drastically crucial and somewhat restrictive can we promote such a natural dynamic growth. I am certain that you agree with me when I say that since the formation of the Earth and of Creation as a whole everything has moved forward and developed in a dynamic rhythm. This dynamic rhythm can be found in all life, such as in the giving and taking, in breathing in and out, in what is above and below, in yin and yang, etc. Unfortunately, we have seen to it that this dynamic rhythm has become seriously disrupted and even destroyed, especially during the past ten decades of modern development, and it has all significantly fallen out of balance.

“We increasingly notice that our Earth which provides our sustenance is fatally ill. We have contaminated our waters with trash of all kind such as plastic, radioactive waste and sewage, using our oceans and rivers as veritable rubbish bins, which results in the fact that our water is no longer drinkable, and that we have to add chemicals to our drinking water to turn it into potable water once again. In turn, these chemical substances add to the contamination of the water element through natural excretion, and it goes on and on until eventually, we will have contaminated ourselves completely. It is simply the manifestation of the law of “What goes around comes around,” or of “cause and effect.” A grim picture? We have poisoned our air, which unceasingly and freely provides for us the vital Prana and which enables us to be alive, with waste gases as well as with visible and invisible detrimental pollution and radiation. The places in this world where you still can breathe clean air become fewer with every day, and thus decreases the quality of life around the world. Our habitat becomes smaller day by day. A grim picture? Indeed it is. But we of The World Foundation for Natural Science do not pursue the same direction such as many other organizations that, while actually recognising this state of emergency, are but fear-mongers. We are an Activity that strives for actively changing situations from scratch through personal commitment.

As a Member or friend of our organization and as a part of our society, as well as of nature herself, you are our partner in solving the difficulties and the issues that mankind can work out by themselves. Whether we like it or not—we are one hundred percent dependent on nature, and it is in our very own interest to do whatever we can that Nature and Mother Earth, and along with her the water and the air, are once again able to find their way back to an appropriate balance and harmony. This is why the common saying that “Nature does not need mankind, but we need nature,” is so very dear to our heart.

Now I ask you, dear friend and having an interest in such matters, to participate in our 20th Anniversary Congress for your own benefit. We promise that you will receive many answers from our speakers, and we will show you where you can act and what you can do to individually improve your own quality of life as well as that of your family, your children and your entire environment. You will be surprised to learn how little effort and means it takes to move many things towards a positive direction. As a matter of fact all it takes is often just one individual with the right attitude and frame of mind—namely you—and the decision to take the first step and take action. There is no point in complaining tomorrow and to grind one’s teeth when we bury our heads in the sand today!

As a worldwide Activity we have already literally moved mountains and have given many people renewed hope for life. No individual can do it all by themselves, whatever it may be. Nor can we, but through our worldwide activities we have access to resources and knowledge which is out of the reach of the average citizen, even in this information age. And what an opportunity for you and us to all act in concert at the same time and at the same place and share our riches with one another. Let us together begin the task of restoring and healing the world and accept our responsibility, do our part and commit ourselves to making a positive change in favour of the balance. This is why we have the symbolic representation of balanced scales in our crest. I know from my own experience that people only become active when they are threatened or restricted in their own comfortable world. As an organization, it is part of our mandate to educate the people where there is a definite need for change and further growth before they actually start hurting. As an organism that is active around the world we are also in direct contact with administrations, governments, authorities and companies, in whatever country the necessity may arise. We are fighting for the well-being of all people, regardless of their race, religion or skin colour.

Our Invitation Letter is not meant to explain to you our entire philosophy but to show you that we are a factor in this world that has to be reckoned with, accomplishing what is right and important with a lot of force and knowledge, wherever and whenever necessary. I want to encourage you that as a responsible citizen you will come to our Congress, and it is my greatest hope to be able to move you to do so. You are going to recognize that we are not fearmongering but that we have both our feet firmly on the ground and have realized a long time ago that we, the people have to work together to leave a relatively healthy environment for ourselves, our children, and future generations. Our mindset and knowledge is far too down-to-earth, and we only act where we are actually able to have a firm and direct impact. Please help us so we can do something for you.

Come to our Congress! It is our promise that we will educate you on the numerous reasons that make our Earth sick on a daily basis, including people and animals, and we will also present solutions to be able to escape from this truly vicious circle. This is why we are so fervently motivated and passionate—it is our commitment, our mandate, and our mission. We are each a citizen just like you in a so-called profession, as a housewife, farmer, student, or pupil, and we all love our lives. In order to maintain that natural balance it is necessary to give and take, as I have already mentioned. Consequently, it is not only our speakers who will contribute to the Congress, but you are also invited, and even requested, to take an active part in the proceedings. Only by acting together on the same stage of life and when you contribute your objections and questions, and when you add to what is being said it will be possible for us to grow as a member of society and as an organism. One of our concerns of this Congress is to provide a platform for this exchange and for the resulting networking. This is why we suggest that you come not only by yourself but that you bring a friend or a like-minded neighbour. It is only by sharing that the wealth of such a rich Congress can be fully appreciated.

It goes without saying that we will provide again simultaneous translation into English, German, Spanish, Russian and Czech for all Presentations. Therefore, do not hesitate to register today either online www.naturalscience.org/registration or, if you prefer to call us, our telephone number is: +41(41)798-0398. Finally it is a great joy for us to tell you that your dog is most welcome at our Congress (no registration fee!), as long as he, or even if he is a she, is housetrained and well-behaved.

What remains for me to say is to seize this golden opportunity. You will not regret it! This Congress in Ulm is the place and the time to share knowledge and experience with one another and to enrich your life for good.

I am looking forward to welcoming you in Ulm and bid you God's Blessing and a safe journey!
