OPENING OF OUR 2022 ANNIVERSARY CONGRESS!

THE TRUE SCIENCE OF LIFE

"God has failed. Long live Science!" This is the tenor that has become louder and louder in recent years. Science has all the answers to our questions and problems, it says, we only have to believe it. But what is True Science? From what source does it originate? Does Science stand in the service of life on this Earth? If not, then who does it serve? And if answers are found, are they always valid from now on?

Friday, 21st October 2022 from 09:00 am to 06:00 pm

THE UNDERESTIMATED GIANTS— HOW TREES REGULATE THE CLIMATE

Everyone is talking about climate change, and many consider it to be the most pressing problem of our time. The culprit has long since been identified: it is CO₂, and the fact that there is far too much of it is once again the fault of mankind. But hardly anyone talks about the trees in this context. The Earth's forests play a major role in the sensitive balance of climate, vegetation and water balance: clear the stage for the silent, green giants of the world!!

BEAN OR DRONE—THE FUTURE OF AGRICULTURE

The world population is growing and growing. Will the Earth still be able to feed people at all in the future? Has the model of small-scale farming finally had its day? Is organic already on its way out? We take a critical look at the promises of recent decades, such as the "Green Revolution" and assess whether their successors, namely Smart Farming, the new genetic engineering or Vertical Farming, will lead agriculture into an abundant future.

WELL ROOTED—A JOURNEY TO THE INNER OF THE SOIL

What we see with our eyes is often only a small section of reality. This also applies to our view of plants. We recognize the apple tree or the sunflower and enjoy its fruit or its colour. But most of the "plant body"—often about eighty percent—is hidden from our view. But it is there, deep in the soil, at the roots, where life pulsates and where a foundation is laid for further processes such as water balance or soil fertility.

AGRICULTURAL FORESTRY—LIVING THE SYMBIOSIS

A century-old practice is currently experiencing a renaissance. Our ancestors knew that everything is interconnected. If these interrelationships are used wisely—in agroforestry, for example, the woody plants, arable crops and livestock—not only do the individual elements benefit, but the entire system grows and thrives. This is a model from nature from which man can learn and which could play an important role in food security.
