Is Green really Green?

The Agenda of Sustainable Energy may not be as sustainable as you think.

CONTENT OF THE LECTURE:

As we celebrate World Earth Day, we will present the real impact on the natural world of the scramble for digitisation and so-called Green energy. We will explore deep sea mining, what is happening with trees and the drive to digitise everything, including humans. There are simple solutions to these seemingly insurmountable problems we are told to fear. We present these in an outstanding seminar brought to you from The World Foundation for Natural Science.

Dr Karl Cox is a computer scientist. He works in the digital world and will talk about the effect digitisation is having on us.

Dr Zac Cox is a biological dentist and homeopathic doctor. He has spoken publicly on many topics related to natural health and works to protect and restore our natural world.
